AUSTRALIAN AMERICAN ALLIANCES.

Australian girls married to American Servicemen form their own club to discuss mutual interests. Some of the couples intend to remain in Australia, others to settle in the United States. But wherever they live they've got to think of the old man's "Inner man".

America holds a fascination for many of the young brides. Map reading takes on a new interest. When Hobbies put on their wivvy clothes again they'll be ready to pick up life in "hometown" with their Australian families.

Aussie girls know better than to expect every home to have its swimming pool, but all the same they think the prospects are "bonzer".
