PIN-UPS ON PARADE.

California, the home of Parades and Shows, turns on a contest for sons and daughters of servicemen. One young hopeful finds the stethoscope a little cold and signals the judge to plant it on another chest.

A merry-go-round of G.I. Joes and G.I. Janes. The American wartime label G.I. covers a multitude of things - it stands for General Issue, and if it's good enough for Dad it's good enough for Junior...let's drink to that.

The winners celebrate success - - (his father must be in the Marines: quite a technique for a youngster). Yes Sir, that girl can kiss.
