ROBOT RAIDERS. ... First Pictures.

Germany's indiscriminate bombing methods run riot in the use of her latest terror weapon... the Flying Bomb. Caught in the beams of searchlights, one of Hitler's Robots, launched from the French Coast, is met by our newly designed counter-measures. Anti-aircraft guns figure largely in their destruction.

A Spitfire pilot gets in a successful burst.

An R.A.F. pilot of one of our new Tempest aircraft and an Intelligence officer examine the wreckage of one brought down. Parts salvaged from such wreckage have been pieced together to disclose structural secrets. R.A.F. medium bombers fly low over the Pas de Calais area to knock out flying bomb bases. Small buildings house the component parts of the Flying bombs. Well concealed, they are obviously difficult to find. But once these launching points are found, we sail in and plaster them with everything we've got, another good answer to Hitler's propaganda weapon.
