HUTS FOR THE HOMELESS.

At a site in East Poplar the first of London's pre-fabricated huts take shape - and rapidly - for two men can build these emergency houses for d-doodle-bug victims in three days. Each with a living room - two bedrooms and a kitchenette, they will accommodate families of five with a little extra room to swing a kitten. Wood and asbestos are the main ingredients used. The tabloid fireplace, together with heating plus will provide the necessary warmth in winter.

Finishing touches to the Lilliput house. Subject to the Government's O.K., the builders are all set to go into production with not one - but hundreds. The Doodlebug Villas, though unpretentious, look like helping in the grave housing problem.
