DOODLEBUG VILLAGE

Temporary homes, built among the blitz-ruins of Poplar, are ready to receive V-bomb victims....Mr. Scott and his daughter say goodbye to their old and badly damaged house and, with their furniture, move off to Doodlebug Village.

Moving in to 22b, Franklin Street.....These huts, though not palatial, will certainly help solve a problem... (if we build enough of them quickly,.....and providing too that they are only temporary).....From their front door the Scotts watch their new neighbours, the Wells, (also father and daughter) arrive at 25b. The Wells lost all their furniture and belongings, but the Poplar Borough Council has fixed them up with some more.

And what do the people who are going to live in these pre-fabricated huts think about them...This is what the Wells have to say....
