BURMA FRONT

R.A.F. Liberators of Eastern Air Command keep up a constant strafe against Japanese supply lines and stores on the Burma Front.

On the air road to Mandalay, new kinds of flying fishes play, and any thunder that disturbs the local inhabitants is not the dawn coming up but bombs going down on Japs.

No restaurant car; but an air gunner needs a snack before tion.... This attack is heading for the PYINMANA Railway Yards, Jap clearing-centre on the Rangoon-Mandalay railway.

A second flight went for TAUNGUP, Jap base on the ARAKHAN front. Six waves of Liberators, showering incendiaries and H.E., went in at two minute intervals to burn and blast this particular bit of Jungle.

Kennedy Peak, in the Chin country, next Jap stronghold after Fiddim, falls to a determined assault by 14th Army men.

In this kind of country, with jungle as well as Japs to fight, sheer toughness and endurance win out.
Towns and villages are being wrested from a ruthless enemy - ruthless, but we've got the measure of him.
