THE LIGHTER SIDE OF WAR

A jeep and ingenuity, plus a borrowed ice cream freezer, give American Third Army men their first ice cream on the Western Front. Salt for the freezing mixture, and powdered "this and that" for the ice cream. But for the little matter of a war on their hands, these boys will soon be thinking they're back home in Pete's drug store.

Let's take a look inside a 9th Army Barber's shop; this one's in Germany. A Saloon for trim-ups and pin-ups.

Oh yes, pictures of the Misses.

Eyes down, soldier, if you want to keep your ears on.

There's only one thing a barber can do for this able-bodied soldier with the Grable-bodied mind.
