OKINAWA INVASION

Still another American invasion in the Pacific. The objective is Okinawa, one of the ring of island fortresses protecting Japan, 300 miles away. Fourteen hundred ships, including units of a British task force, were used in the operation.

More than 1500 naval aircraft were engaged before the battle was over. Jap planes try to cover the 80,000 troops defending Okinawa - with these results.

Rocket firing ships hurl flaming-tailed missiles against Jap pill-boxes in hillside caves. A volcano of rockets that spells death.
