ONE MILLION SURRENDER

Nazi officers in civilian clothes surrender for one million Germans. General Morgan, acts for Field Marshal Alexander.

The Italian Royal Palace at Caserta is the scene of this historic ceremony. Present are high ranking American and Russian Army and Navy officers.

The German signature of the surrender terms mark the end of a magnificent campaign. Its launching point was Alamein. From there, by dogged courage in a cruelly hard struggle, Allied troops drove the defeated enemy across Africa, over the Mediterranean and up the full length of Italy. The immortal 8th Army will forever be associated with the victory to which General Morgan's signature sets the final seal. We feel that a great public tribute is due to Field Marshal Alexander. Through him we salute the men who fought under him. Today what was the German Army in Italy lies at the feet of a great British soldier.
