

ATLANTIC "QUEEN" HOME.

The "Queen Mary" comes back to her Southampton home. Tags bustled round her and ships sirens became a welcome to the returning liner.

This is the first time since the war that the Queen Mary has pulled into her old berth. In one of the war's grimmest accidents, the massive bow of the ship cut the cruiser Guracoe in two. The peace time Queen of the Atlantic may soon be out of her war paint and back on the normal Trans-Atlantic run.....one of the signs that peace has really come at last.
