NUREMBERG. THE TRIAL CONTINUES....

Days lengthen into weeks at Nuremberg as British and American prosecutors pile up a mountain of evidence against the Goering gang. Documents so secret that Hitler allowed no more than half a dozen copies to be made have been produced in open court - every move in the world's biggest criminal conspiracy is being laid bare. To help the Tribunal a chart has been made showing the successive steps in the Nazi ladder of power.

(SPEECH)

It was about this time that the trials hottest sensation broke. Hess sat up and took notice. After telling the Judges that his "loss of memory" plea was a sham put on to deceive the court he got busy with his defence counsel. This unexpected news item jerked the mass of newsreel, press and radio men into action.
