OPENING OF WATERLOO BRIDGE

Performing the ceremony is Mr. Herbert Morrison.

(SPEECH)

Taking the place of the temporary structure which now spans rivers in Holland, the new bridge was still on timber supports when the war began. Given top priority, work was rushed through. After more than twenty air raid incidents its six traffic lines were ready for use by the end of last year. It now remains for London to take to heart Mr. Morrison's words, "Keep it white. It's whiteness is one of its glories."
