

MRS F.D.R. HERE FOR U.N.O. TALKS

With Senators Tom Connally and Arthur Vandenberg, Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. Stettinius leave New York en route for London. America's delegation to the United Nations Organisation, have described their mission as "the world's most stupendous adventure."

With a kiss for his daughter, Ambassador Gusev lands at Northolt airfield with the Russian delegation to U.N.O. Professor Krylov, International Law Expert is one of the men from Moscow. From the nations of the world, the seekers after peace converge on London.

The Queen Elizabeth brought the delegates from the Americas to Southampton.

On the liner's sports deck, they received civic greetings from the Mayor of Southampton. Mrs. Roosevelt was dressed in deep mourning, a spray of yellow orchids providing the only touch of colour.

Mr. Stettinius, permanent head of the U.S. representatives, brings a strong team to do a big job. In what spirit they come you can hear from Mrs. Roosevelt.

SPEECH