

WOMEN PROTEST AT FOOD CUTS

Heading the housewives' food-cut revolt, three hundred women from Ilford, Barking and East Ham gather for a mass protest in Ilford Town Hall. Talking points for further argument came from Chairman, Mrs. Watts.

MRS WATTS

We were hoping and expecting that when the war was over that we should get more to eat, at least not to have a cut. I think probably we would have been content to have gone on until things righted themselves, but we feel that the Prime Minister has led us up the garden path. Well the Prime Minister and Sir Ben Smith might be decent chaps we don't mind walking up the garden path with them. Here's what it all came to. A resolution put by Vice-Chairman, Miss Austin.

MISS AUSTIN

This meeting demands from the Government more food, greater value for points, more soap, and additional coupons for household linen, curtains, furnishings etc.
