WOMEN PROTEST AT FOOD CUTS

Food cuts agitation went a step further. Queue-busting, clergyman's wife, Mrs. Lovelock, spectacled chairman of the British Housewives League, led a deputation of three, armed with a protest-resolution to Whitehall and Food Minister, Sir Ben Smith. But already Britain buckles down with sober determination to the work of keeping the nation fed. At Bedford, Land girls march past Princess Elizabeth. A well-earned tribute to the food army, now facing a battle bigger even than its task in war. Women assisting at the wheel of agriculture drive forward to make the Season's crop a bumper one.

To a back ground of the all-out food drive we come again to Westminster, and the staggering news which rounded off the present session of U.N.O. In 35 days, 60,000 feet of film have recorded the scenes and deliberations of 51 nations and the warnings of World famine was no easy note to end on.

SPEECH

We shall remember also, Edward Stettinius, quiet voiced, sincere, an old and tried friend of Britain.

SPEECH

A heart warming gesture is made by Australia's spokesman Mr. Beanley with this rallying call of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

SPEECH

There's an element of drama as Dr. Wellington Koo rounds off China's claim for help with these arresting words.

SPEECH

And for Russia, Mr. Gromyko. In harmony on the topic of privation. The Soviet Union and 50 other Nations agree on the solemn problem of this hungry world.
