PRINCESS ELIZABETH AT SANDHURST.

Princess Elizabeth takes the leading role in Sandhurst's traditional ceremonial, at the Passing out of Officer Cadets of No. 161 OGRU.

Belts of honour, autographed by the Princess, were presented in place of the customary swords, in recognition of the best all-round progress, to Cadet Hayes of Barnet and later to Cadet Price.

For the occasion, Princess Elizabeth wore a leaf-green coat, and a hat with green and brown ostrich feathers. From the steps of the grand entrance she reviews the final impressive passing-out march.

Following tradition, to round off the ceremony, Captain the Earl Cathcart rides his horse through the college doors.
