THE KING REVIEWS BOY SCOUTS

A thousand Boy Scouts from all parts of the country parade in the Grand Quadrangle of Britain's historic Windsor Castle. Led by the King's colour of the Scout's Association and under the banners of 39 local contingents, the parade marches past Their Majesties to the music of the Band of the Grenadier Guards.

Prominent in the parade are members of the newest body, the Air Scouts. Reaffirming their promise, 1000 representatives of British scouting face up to the new peace-time horizon.
