CABINET AT THE SEASIDE

The charms of the seaside give a new slant on Labour's annual conference at Bournemouth and Pathe's Parliamentary reporter brings back pictures of Mrs. Bevin off for a breath of sea air. Negotiating the swing doors comes the Foreign Secretary. Everything he does has a determined, deliberate air about it.

Lighting a cigarette is Jim Griffiths, Insurance Minister, while star-of-the-conference H. Herbert Beat-the-Communists Morrison limbers up with a stiff walk.

On the right there is Agriculture Minister Tom Williams. His policy came in for heavy criticism from Labour's delegates. Army from the shadow of the little Budget bag are Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dalton. Also coming in for conference criticism was Ellen Wilkinson, Minister of Education. And here's Mines-Nationaliser Emanuel Shinwell - his big coal worries will come in the winter. And here's a housewife you'd all like to talk to; Dr. Edith Summerskill, the Food Minister's Parliamentary Secretary. Well in the limelight, is Labour's mystery man, spectacled Professor Harold J. Laski. Last year's Labour Party Chairman, he seems to have friends among Bournemouth's autograph hunters.
