DANCING HORSES.

For 300 years the dancing horses of Vienna's Spanish Riding Academy have been famous among the world's best-trained animals. Moved now to Wels in Upper Austria, they have been granted permission to carry on by the Occupation authorities. And before such grace and intelligence it would be hard to see the school disbanded. Star performer is this magnificent Lippizan stallion demonstrating the most difficult routines of classical training. Solo dance is the Piaffe, and the bow for applause is the Levade.

And last of all, a superb Courbette.
