PALESTINE; SOUTH AMERICA; ITALY

This is Lionel Marsden opening Pathe's overseas despatches with news from Palestine. Search for illegal arms and buried explosives goes on. Dogs trained to the work help British sappers. Scene is the fishing village of Sedet Yam, a few hours journey from Haifa.

With next moves awaited from Arabs and Jews in Palestine tension grows.

Off the coast of Chile. Explosive-pointed harpoons bring a new note to the epic story of the search for Whales. Bursting inside the Whale, the harpoon brings instant death. Pathe cameramen aboard record the swift efficiency of the hunt for fifty-ton monsters of the sea.

Later the carcass is inflated with air and secured alongside. Oil derived from one whale makes 300,000 bars of soap. World shortages give whaling a new value and Chile a growing industry.

Rome. Inflation-crippled Italy heaps up 25 million lire in notes. Objective - the furnace. New money issues will be in coin. Meantime, Bank of Italy stokers put in an expensive half-hour.
