

FLEET SHOWS FLAG IN GREECE

From the Greek port of Nauplia, our local cameraman reports the arrival of the British Fleet. A hush-hush, unofficial visit it follows quickly on the recent prestige cruise of the U.S. Navy in the same waters. You don't have to be a diplomatic expert to tie in this navy tour with present Big Four wrangling on the subject of Greece and her Yugoslav, Albanian and Bulgarian neighbours. In Greece the waters look surface-smooth, underneath is the promise of future trouble.
