

101328F-
101328-
101328P-
ONE MINUTE NEWS

Today we salute a very gallant airman. Geoffrey De Havilland was killed on an experimental flight. His aircraft exploded, but films he carried prove that he had beaten the world's fastest speed. If it were possible to sound over him a Last Post, what better music than that of the planes he flew so magnificently.

Bridgton, Birmingham. Britain's V.C. dogs go through their paces at the meeting of the Alsatian Association.

Top of the show was "Jet" V.C. He saved 125 lives when a Chelsea block of flats was hit by a flying bomb. And here's a gentleman who wouldn't stay out of the picture.

On the pier at Eastbourne, our One Minute reporter dropped in on the Anglers Festival. He was out looking for a fish queue.

You should've seen the one that got away.

My sailer, pull for the shore.

Well, I'll be kippered.

Serious fishermen weighed in at the end. Our entry, didn't get a prize.