PATHE FRONT PAGE

Front paging this week we invite one hundred and fifty of Britain's loveliest models. They're here to give you a private view of the most exotic and expensive dress show yet staged. The time; one minute after midnight at London's Albert Hall. The occasion; a world display of the work of Britain's dress designers.

For the evening step-out, step into something like these.

From our fashion reporters, special praise went to the cold-shouldered models.

Boxes to watch the show cost 50 guineas each. For a bird's eye view up in the gods you paid 10/6. And after all that, more than 5,000 people packed in to see the show.

A big moment in Britain's drive to win back her pre-war reputation among the world's best dressed women. A midnight Ball with plenty of promise for the coupon-clipping Cinderellas of 1946.

For the inauguration of their New Year, devout Jews make their traditional pilgrimage. The year 5607 opens for them at a crucial point in Jewish history. They go reverently through the ancient streets towards the wailing wall. Once part of the Temple of Solomon, Jews of many centuries have prayed here for guidance.

With the fate of Palestine still in the balance, 5607 will be a year of destiny for international Jewry.

Replacing Mr. Henry Wallace in the American cabinet, is ex-British Ambassador Averell Harriman.

(Speech)

From Heath Row airport, millionaire-diplomat Harriman goes home. Back in New York, he steps into the shoes that able, emotional Henry Wallace made uneasy wearing.

From France, something new in weddings. Once they've got the photograph to put on the piano, the bridal carriage waits. Transport is hard to get in Paris these days - but love, as somebody said somewhere will always find a way.

It's the first wheelbarrow wedding. And there was one husband who got taken for a ride.
