PEOPLE IN CAMERA

Flying into this week's camera introductions is a star making a come-back. We met him in Paris and he's Maurice Chevalier. To prove it, here's the one-time famous voice.

'Speech'

And from our reporter in Leicester, a meeting with eighty year old Will Rogers of Tur Langton, Market Harborough. Local folk claim he's Britain's oldest working smith. At this interview, we took the pictures - Mr. Rogers just went on working. Been at it 65 years, he says, and still too busy to go into films.

All told, Will Rogers claims he's made 20,000 horseshoes. After an eight-hour day he goes home with the title "our oldest blacksmith?" Any challengers?
