

AUSTRALIA'S SECOND TEST

- Sydney, Australia, where England were soon up against it in the second Test Match. For the first defeat we could blame the weather. In this game there were no alibis. On this showing, England just weren't good enough. Hutton tried hardest, till a knock on the shoulder from Miller's bowling put him off his form.

England's first innings petered out with only 255 on the scoreboard. Main reason for that was Aussie wicket keeper Tallon, best man behind the sticks in present day cricket. With his peculiar spider crouch he caught everything that looked like a catch - and a good many that didn't.

Now for the procession of pavilion-bound batsmen. Here's Washbrook, bowled Freer for 1.

Johnson to Hutton - and a catch by Tallon behind the wicket.

Edrich knocked up a grand 71 till McCool got him LEW.

Yardley went next, LEW bowled Johnson. And the final blow of all, Skipper Wally Hammond was out for one. Tallon caught him, too, making a total of four catches for the innings. In reply Barnes and Bradman made 234 each - all England got was another Test shake-up.
