ANGLO-FRENCH TREATY SIGNED

At historic Dunkirk, French Foreign Minister Bidault and Britain's Ernest Bevin sign the Anglo-French Treaty. The ceremony was held in the town's only undamaged building, the Police Prefecture.

SPEECH

Cameras, reporters and officials crowded the small room, as Bevin and Bidault set the seal to the 50 years alliance. The Entente Cordiale was tested and tried in British and French blood. Let us hope the new pact heralds a peaceful era.
