ONE MINUTE NEWS

In case you haven't seen enough of it read your way - these snow pictures with a difference come from Czechoslovakia. Strange men have strange habits. These two seemed to have got their calendar mixed up. They think it is August Bank Holiday now.

These two are more in our line.

The boys say doing this keeps them fit. We'll stay the way we are now.

The end of the big freeze-up. In the North Sea, great stretches of the sea have been frozen solid for more than a month - the first time this has happened in 100 years. Away over by the Dutch coast, the Pathe aeroplane checks up on the great thaw.

Shipping is on the move again. At one time we thought the North Pole was just round the corner, but now Spring is in the air - almost.

Third week of the Royal visit to South Africa. The King and Queen and Princesses visit the world famous Snake Park at Port Elizabeth.

Hundreds of venomous reptiles are bred here. They provide the serum for anti-toxin injections. Snake catcher Jehannis has been training them for a long time. Now, poised erect with forked tongues flashing, they were on their best behaviour for the Royal visitors.

The Queen and the Princesses are shown a mamba whose bite kills in 10 minutes. Only Jehannis is at home with the cobras. He is the Dominion's snake charmer No. 1.

From Port Elizabeth the Royal Family continue their triumphant tour of South Africa.

In Edinburgh, at the East Road ground, Hibernian (in white sleeved shirts) meet Glasgow Rangers in the 3rd Round replay of the Scottish Cup. Hibs were all out to avoid a repeat goalless Cup-tie draw. We spotlight Ranger's goalie Brown firm against continuous attacks by the Hibs forwards.

Now watch him save from Finnigan, No. 8.

First Hibernian goal comes after brilliant play by outside-right Gordon Smith. Ormond scores with a terrific drive.

Just before the end Hibs get goal No. 2 from an Ormond pass to Centre-forward Cuthbertson.

A Hibs triumph and a great day for Edinburgh.

Scottish visitors in Fjaligarden, Sweden. The occasion was the revival of a pre-war annual event - the Scotland versus Sweden curling match.

Scottish Bagpipes reinforced the Club Orchestra.

Viewing the Scottish-Swedish battle on the ice is 73 year old Scot, T. Brown.

Leading contestant from Scotland is Sir James Donby Roberts. Players follow their throws sweeping the ice in front of the curling iron.

Next winter the Swedish team hope to play the return match on Scotland's curling rinks.

In London's Albany Club - the Bartenders' Guild meets to discover who can mix the perfect cocktail. In all there were 46 entries. Stage and screen star Sid Field comes along as one of the judges.

Itma's personality girl Lind Joyce is there to give the woman's point of view.

On a day like this, Sid sticks closer than a brother.

Winning drink was called "Eight Bells." All the judges agreed - except one - Jack "Colonel Chinstrap" Train.
