On Wimbledon's No. 1 Court, American doubles favourites Jack Kramer and Bob Falkenburg meet Britain's DeLoford and Lewis. Here is Kramer serving.

Opening the second set - here's Falkenburg's service - reputed the world's fastest.

The English pair took the favourites to 6-4. Kramer and Falkenburg, without exerting themselves, won the last set 6-3. And that was round one of the men's doubles at Wimbledon.

Over at Morecombe's Floral Hall, the North West Lancashire Professional Dance Championships. 3 couples are on the floor to compete for the Challenge Trophy and £70 prize money.

Here are the winners - Dereen Freeman and Victor Barrett of London.

From all parts of England, professional dancing couples come to Lancashire to dance it out for the Morecombe Trophy.

Already West of England Champions, Freeman and Barrett are now tops in Lancashire.

At Cardiff, once again, all the girls are on show. It's an international bowling match between the ladies of England, Scotland and Wales.

Here is Wales pulling one out of the bag. Bowling is Mrs. Harris of Shrewsbury. It was tough, while it lasted. But the Scots were too good for them all. Clarendon's Mrs McLelland bowls and Scotland are the winners.

To the Scottish team goes the Eve Trophy.

Down in Australia, Mrs. Ross Atgill owns three dogs - Rex, Aussie and Scot. They wouldn't win a beauty prize - but they'd certainly get top marks in a trick contest.

With his eyes to the front Scottie can pick the queerest positions.

Dressed as a ballerina, Aussie puts Pavlova in the shade. During the war Mrs. Attrill and her dog circus raised money for the Red Cross.

It's a tiring job pushing someone around. But Scottie is a lot better off this way. Here he is all dressed up in his native costumes. A true Black Watch dog all the way from Scotland.

It's bedtime for the youngster, says Mrs. Aussie, and the end of the show.

A ship explosion wrecks Los Angeles Harbour. The 11,000 ton tanker Markay, with three million gallons of fuel in the hold, is one big blaze.

Only two months ago, a harbour explosion destroyed Texas City on the Gulf of Mexico. Today, an off-shore wind and special protective devices save Los Angeles' fuel storage area and prevent another disaster. 14 people are reported killed. Damage is estimated at 10 million dollars. The Government is investigating this new port catastrophe.

Ramsgate Lays the foundation of a new link between French and English towns. To his summer Fayre, Ramsgate's Mayor - Alderman Austin - invites guests from across the channel. Together with their wives, come the Maires of Boulogne, Dunkerque and Arras.

Highlight of the day was the beauty competition. All the town's lovelies are on parade. They all want to be Queen of the Fayre. Judging the girls is heart-throb Eric Barker.

At Norwich's Kerswick Park the Royal Norfolk Agricultural Society held their centenary show.

In the presence of the King and Queen the best of Britain's livestock parades around the ring.

During the winter thousands of animals perished. To farmers who carried on despite their many hardships the King paid tribute. The Queen took a special interest in the flowers.
