ONE MINUTE NEWS

Stepney gets a visit from the Prime Minister and Mrs. Attlee. 200 of the Borough's Old Age Pensioners are off on an outing to Margate, and Mrs. Attlee is there to see them off. Complete with a special gift of sweets, the pensioners (the eldest is 86) are all out for their day by the sea.

It was here, in London's East End, that Mr. Attlee began his political career. He has represented the Limehouse Constituency ever since.

A new generation of Dorset folk are on show at Poole. This is Britain's reply to America's Mrs. Sanger Slee who (as reported in Pathe News) says: European women should have no more babies for the next ten years. 300 bouncing, bony, bubbling babies provide an answer to Mrs. Sanger Slee.

Poole's Mayoress, Mrs. Haynes, attended the show. Also there to spot new talent, was Carrol Lewis, Canadian-born "star" discoverer. Babies in cots weren't the only ones on parade, so Mr. Lewis found his hands pretty full. But it's all part of the job to find the discovery of today who'll be the star of tomorrow.

Japanese War Criminals are still being dealt with by the Allies. In Shanghai, Yonemura, once the Wolf of Chongahu, and Shimeta, formerly the Tiger of Kiangsu are led out from their gaol. There, imprisoned for the past 18 months, they have awaited sentence for crimes committed during the war. Bound upright on a truck, this is to be their last day. Former Jap Commanders (murderers of men, women and children) theirs is to be swifter death than they gave their victims.

Police held back angry Chinese eager to trample the bodies. It's an inglorious but just end for the Tiger and the Wolf.
