Dover

From Calais to Dover comes the destroyer Bicester. Aboard, a 12 year-old youngster waits for a thrill which answers every schoolboy's dream. They're going to turn out the marines to greet him because he is Feisal the second, boy King of Iraq. He is over here to attend a Dorset preparatory School. Later he will go to Bryanston School, and then on to Eton. But today, the Bicester's crew line up to pipe the young sovereign ashore.

Young Feisal has already been a reigning monarch for eight years, but this is the first time he's seen a public naval reception. Back in Iraq, they don't do things like this.

After this there will be a few days holiday in London before Dorset - and school.

Chicago

Princess's home burns

Fire wrecks Ascot's Sunninghill Park. Only a short time ago, Princess Elizabeth and Lieutenant Mountbatten had been given the house for their future home by the King. Once a 25 roomed mansion, today it's a burned out shell. The Royal couple's set of rooms was completely destroyed. Only the servants' quarter was untouched. After extensive police enquiries, the cause of the fire is believed to have been a carelessly dropped cigarette end. Reports of arson were denied. Bagshot Park may be Princess Elizabeth's new home.
