- 6. C.U. Question. 'Do you think Russia wants war with the United States.' 8
- 7. C.U. Answer. 'There is no great nation in the world today that would deliberately provoke a global war. A vast and productive industry is necessary to a nation with mountainous quantities of supplies built up before it would attempt any such venture. Economies in all nations except our own and we know we don't want war are far too broken and debilitated by World War II to believe that they would deliberately start a war now. 53
