WORLD AT YOUR ELBOW

London -

In Shadwell Basin the four masted barque 'Pamir' receives royal visitors. Captain Collier with his sea going wife, takes pride in showing off New Zealand's sailing ship. The men who form the crew warrant attention, for in these days of easier seafaring they follow their calling in a fashion of a sterner age. 'Pamir's' only concessions to the present day are wireless and electric light.

The Duke of Edinburgh obviously enjoys his busmens holiday while the Princess has a kindly word for the apprentice lads. Mindfull that her husband started his career as such. Together they congratulate the skipper on his record voyage, 15,000 miles in 80 days.
