PATHE REPORTER MEETS....

At the British Industries Fair, to discover how British goods are meeting the needs of overseas customers is Pathe's reporter.

SOUND

The fair shows that Britain has to produce an ever-changing variety of goods to keep pace with foreign development. The Far East, in particular looks to Britain for scientific aid.

SOUND

Most visitors - convinced of the high standard of British products - place large orders, but a customer from Pakistan is cautious.

SOUND

But the fair remains open another week - he still has time to reach a favourable decision.
