FRENCH PREMIER CHOOSES CABINET

Posed the hackneyed question, "Who's in the New Cabinet" Andre Marie, France's new Premier, spars with Parisian newsmen. Certainties in the New Government are such old political stagers as Socialist Leon Blum (left) with Independent Paul Reynaud (right) as Finance Minister, M. Paul Ramadier, the bearded gentleman, is to be a Minister of State. That dapper Foreign Minister, M. Bidault, familiar as Conference partner of Ernest Bevin, is to be dropped. His place is to be taken by the ex-Premier, M. Schumann.

And Andre Marie, one time a prisoner in Buchenwald, takes on the World's most insecure job, the Premiership of France.
