

PARIS SHOW REVEALS NEW FIGURES

During a lull in the political crisis, Paris gets down to another election, dear to every Frenchman's heart - choosing Miss France 1949. Technically, contestants receive points for distinction and intelligence as well as looks. But, between ourselves, the judges don't care if none of them knows their A.B.C.

As the odds shorten, so do the swimsuits. Paris costume designers achieve the maximum effect with the minimum material.

The show finished with a display of true feminine temperament. One contestant, refusing to take the judges' word for it, burst into tears and slapped the winner's face. All's fair in love, war - and a Paris beauty contest.

ELECTION MISS FRANCE

In one of the smartest dancing of the Champs Elysées in Paris, took place the Election of "Miss France" 1949.

Miss France will not only be beautiful, but also intelligent, distinguished, etc... and all the young girls who ~~tak~~ will try to win the title will have to undergo severe tests.

Miss Juliette Figueras, who was Miss Paris, ~~ix~~ is named "Miss FRANCE" after a rather agitated séance.
