

HATS HEAD FOR SPRING

The Hat Parade. Mayfair prepares to greet the Spring sunshine with what-it-takes to make a girl feel right on top, something new in headgear. Lady Newberough fits Christine Norden with No. 1 - for cocktails. Though, they've already changed their minds about the New Look for clothes, coming hat styles refuse to go wild, and even a man can see that hats are no longer the things husbands left their wives over. This one is "Cherry Time" - no extra charge for birds and straw.

A felt cap, with white and black osprey trimmings wins the approval of a critical audience of screen stars.

Lana Morris runs an expert eye over the review and there, too (to see what's what) is Edana Romney.

After the gaudy hats of the Twenties - the crazy hats of the Thirties - come the new designs from the austere Forties. What's your opinion?
