MONTY PRESENTS HIS SKIING CUP

The modern command car gives way to an old fashioned sleigh, as Field Marshal Montgomery arrives at Gstaad, famous Swiss skiing resort, for a well-earned break from his duties as Western Union's Commander-in-Chief. Fully prepared for the Swiss winter, Monty is given his usual hero's reception.

A host of famous old and young crowds Gstaad (among them Winston Churchill Jnr) to see 40 skiers jump it out for the Monty Cup. Here comes No. 36, Bern's Willy Klepfenstein.

The nephew of the Shah of Persia is among the eager young spectators, as well as Ali Khan's elder son. They join in the crowd's cheers for the winner, Fritz Tschannen, first with 61 metres.

For the winner of the Monty Cup, a trophy as shiny as a Field-Marshal's baton.
