WAREHOUSE-FIRE 26 N.

On the "Prince-island", that picturesque/old- /piece Amsterdam, a grim fire has done great ravages to four 17th-ages warehouses, which belong to the nicest of the city.

The fire began in the cabinet-making work, settled in one of the warehouses and in a short time it touched the other three warehouses.

The fire-brigade directly sent much material to the place. They obstinately fought against the fire, but could not prevent, that the warehouses totally burnt out.

The goods, therein lodged, for a worth of more than one million Dutch guilders, were lost.

The frontages have been retained rather well, so restoration of the stores ~~may~~ will be possible.
