

Rome

b-248501 22.3.49

St. Francis' Village

The way to the Roman Castles is not totally pleasant.

The Roman Aqueducts' ruins seen far from look appealing, but the scenario changes close and hard truth comes by sight.

Several poor families rootless because of the war, were obliged to adapt themselves to live here.

~~St. Francis' Village~~ a new village named St. Francis' Village will be Here the architect Passerelli and the President Prof. Cellini are describing to Father Lombardi, who was the forsterer, how the houses will be.

The first to take an interest on this effort was the Pope whose offering was a generous one.

Even American people contributed with money to this good work.

Here the State Secretary Fanfani is signing the parchment which will be interred with the foundation stone, placed and blessed before its interring.

H