

10285-7

ARGENTINE CONSTITUTION DAY

49-27.

It's Constitution Day in Buenos Aires -- a great day for President Peron, under whose personal orders Argentina's new constitution was written. Evita Peron looks on happily as her husband takes the oath which entitles him to a second presidential term -- illegal under the old constitution. Then there's a military show, reminding the world that whatever opposition there may be to the one-party administration, Argentina's armed services are still solidly behind Peron.