

HOUSE PAINT

BARUCH

WOLF

Ninety-six painters get ready to go to work on a five-room house. The home's a gift from New Brunswick, New Jersey, citizens to their Marine hero Robert Healsle, a paraplegic veteran, and his fiance. The painters' union, in addition to donating it's services, is out to set a speed record. Ready? Go!

The job's done in two minutes and thirty-two seconds -- a world's record. A community finds a practical way to say thanks to a wounded veteran.

HELL DRIVERS

Youngson Donaldson

X In an International Thrill Show at the Los Angeles Coliseum, Jimmy Martin's Hell Drivers solve the problem of what to do with old used cars. They've a sure cure for headaches too, but the treatment is rather drastic.

AFTER CROWD) X You've heard of barrel loops in the air, here's one on the ground.

DRIVER OFF) X Dented but undaunted, the car drives off under its own power, but here's one that won't --

AFTER CROWD) X It's all in a day's work for the Hell Drivers.
