

WOLVERHAMPTON WELCOMES ITS CUP HEROES

The Cup has found a new lair. The Wolves - with skipper Billy Wright clutching the coveted trophy - return in triumph to their home town. "Well played the boys in black and gold" is the cry taken up by the 100,000 crowd, as the victory procession moves slowly through the densely packed streets of the Midland city. Not for 40 years - the last time they won the cup - has Wolverhampton seen anything like this.

With the freedom of the city as good as theirs, Manager Stan Cullis (who, when a player, was one of England's greatest) pays tribute to the fine spirit of the Wolves.

SOUND

Billy Wright - a grand captain, a fine player, a wonderful clubman, did probably more than anyone to bring the cup to Wolverhampton. Wright knew no wrong and his is a welcome richly deserved.

SOUND

With a team like this, it's even betting that the cup stays at Wolverhampton for another year. Football can do with more men like Billy Wright.
