

6-250201
Rome, May 12th

BAD WEATHER IN PIEDMONT REGION

This is what the violent and sudden rains have done to the Piedmont region.

Villages and towns are transformed in muddy networks of flowing waters. Boats are employed to cross the street and people have to build abodes on the roofs of their homes in order to keep away from the water.

Only the lamps emerging from the overflowing Po river indicate its former course.

This is the worst flood since 1939. All activities are interrupted or carried on with great difficulties.

Bread is delivered anyhow, and someone is lucky enough to get his lunch with no effort at all.

Pathe London - not exclusive covered on May 8th

Flood