

THEATRICAL GARDEN PARTY

STARS PLAY HOST TO PUBLIC

Dodging the showers at Reckhampton Club, the stars desert footlights and floodlights for an afternoon's good deed - entertaining the public at the Theatrical Garden Party, which helps the Actors' Orphanage. DANNY KAYE drops in as the big names in Show Business open the box-office to record crowds. BILLY MILTON finds music good for business - DAPHNE BARKER at the controls.

Parading for the fans are STEWART GRANGER, JEAN SIMMONS, JOHN GIELGUD and GERTRUDE LAWRENCE. With so many co-operative celebrities about, the autograph-hunters have a field-day.

The rainy weather brings out new hats galore. VIVIEN LEIGH is there, sheltering under a wide, floppy brim while Greta GYNT favours feathers. Hit of the hats is one worn by Mrs. FELIX TOPOLSKI (the artist's wife) suspiciously like a bowler - borrowed perhaps from ROBERTSON HARE, who has nothing to hide.
