

Road racing, neglected in America since World War One, returns to Long Island where the famed Vanderbilt Cup races once roared over dusty roads. At Bridgehampton, a parade of turn of the century cars tees off a sporting event which mixes nostalgia and speed. Remember the days of the heaving Stanley Steamer ---

Fifteen thousand fans see the start of the feature race - a grueling hundred mile test for foreign-made sport cars. Ordinary country roads make up the four mile course. The unbanked turns are sharp and the skids are frequent.

SPORTS (2)

Covering a hundred miles in eighty minutes, George Hunteon of Florida flashes home in front.

by

0

8

that are long