

THEY MET AND WED IN DANCE HALL

Fashions change. It used to be Gretna Green. But here on this crowded dance-floor in Sauchishall Street, Glasgow, boy met girl, joined in a dance - and decided to become partners for keeps. And here they asked to be wed. A thousand dancers leave the floor as pretty Lillias Sutherland arrives with her father and the bridal train for the first wedding every to be held in a ballroom.

A troop of girl pipers is there to make it a real Scottish reception for the happy couple.

On the spot where they first danced cheek-to-cheek, Lillias now greets her future husband, shipping clerk Jimmy Hood. The Rev. J.A. Cowley performs this unique ceremony. Lucky Lillias and her husband will start married life with a complete houseful of furniture and home equipment, the gift of the management.

Later the bride and bridegroom left for an expenses-paid honeymoon. Glasgow provides the Romance of the Month.
