28. M.S. Madame Chiang Kai Shek speaking:
'In a few days I shall be returning to China,
not to Hanking, Chingking, Shanghai or Canton, not to the soil of our mainland. I shall return to my people on the island of Formosa, the fortress of our hopes, the citadel of our battle to oust an alien power which is ravaging our country.
Friends, I speak to you today to say goodbye, to thank you for your kind hospitality.

29. S.C.U. 'Goodbye my friends and thank you.'

30. C.U. 'My husband remains resolute to lead his people against the alien invaders and their alien ideas.

31. M.S. 'I speak to you today to say goodbye..... OUT

32. S.C.U. 'With or without help we shall fight. We are not defeated. Millions of my countrymen are yet dedicated to the long fight. As long as the breath remains in us and with faith in the Almighty we shall continue our struggle. Not a day, not an hour will pass, which will not be devoted to our struggle for freedom'

33. C.U. 'The oppressed people on the mainland will be prepared so that at a given signal they will rise up simultaneously and overthrow the yoke of Communist domination with our returning armies.
To this we are dedicated with our lives.

34. S.C.U. Repeat of last two paragraphs.

35. C.U. 'Already, the moral weaklings are forsaking us.
It is with heavy heart that I note that a former ally, Britain, which sacrificed millions of lives on the altar of freedom has now been taken by its leaders into the wilderness of political intrigue.
Britain has bartered the soul of a nation for a few pieces of silver. I say 'for shame' to Britain.
One day these pieces of silver will bear interest in British blood, sweat and tears on the battleground of freedom. For that which is morally wrong can never be politically right'.

36. M.S. 'The United States and China have a long friendship as long as the history of the American Republic.

Continuation of Madame Chiang Kai Shek's speech

Many of your citizens have lived in our country. Your people have come to our aid and have given us comfort. Yours has been a contribution of affection. You have asked for no 'quid pro quo'. You name among us will always be cherished for its friendship and kindness.

37. C.U. 'We stand with empty but willing hands. We stand humble, tired, crying for peace and rest, even more than for rice and bread but we cannot give up the fight for liberty. We shall not give up the right for liberty. With or without help, China shall fight for liberty. Alone, it will take longer and cost more lives. With help our gains will be swifter but free we shall be, resolute in spirit and confident in man's inherent love of freedom and justice will emerge victorious, our forces will fight on. History records with devastating truth that right will prevail.

38. M.S. 'Already the moral weaklings are forsaking us. It is with heavy heart that I note that a former ally, Britain, which sacrificed many lives on the altar of freedom has now been taken by its leaders into the wilderness of political intrigue.'
