

SHIPMENT:

SUBJECT: CLEMENT ATTLEE'S ELECTION SPEECH.

Own.

Date Recd:

Orig Neg XX :Dupe :Neg : F.G. :Release : Red : Lav. : B/W : B/W : Master

Date of Issue

Neg. Track XX :Pos :Track : Mute : Comb. : Length : ft.

I N D E X

Pathe Studio ✓

Political - British - Elections ✓

For full election Speech see blueprint Attlee's card.

Attlee 1-12 ✓

(Show bracketed brackets to indicate portion used in issue)

LOCATION OF STORY PATHE STUDIO, Wardour Street.

S H O T L I S T

- 1. S.I. T.2. [SV. Attlee seated in armchair, speaks:-
"5 years of war inflicted great damage on our country. Valuable lives were lost. Much wealth was destroyed. Our trade was disrupted. Clearly there will be hardships and shortages of many things to be endured. To achieve recovery we require a great effort on the part of all the men and women of Britain."] 46 ft.
- 2. S.2. T.3. SCU. Attlee seated in armchair, speaks:-
"During the last 4½ years a very fine effort has been made. Production in industry and agriculture has been greatly increased. The opportunity of working has been afforded to all and the vast majority has worked well. The inevitable hardships and shortages have as far as possible, been shared, but so have the advantages. The great social security scheme has been applied to all and the result is seen that Labour's policy has produced magnificent children and babies. Never have there been such fine babies and yet Mr. Churchill calls this 'sharing misery.'" 84 ft.
- 3. S.2. T.5. [SCU. Attlee seated in armchair, speaks:-
"During the last 4½ years a very fine effort has been made. Production in industry and agriculture has been greatly increased. The opportunity of working has been afforded to all the vast majority has worked well. The inevitable hardships and shortages have as far as possible been shared, but so have the advantages. The great social security scheme has been applied to all. The result of Labour's policy is seen in the health of the people, especially of the children and the babies. Never have they been so fine...."] 70 ft.
- 4. S.3. T.I. CU. Attlee seated in armchair, speaks:-
"Yet Mr. Churchill calls this 'sharing misery.' The question to be decided at this election is whether Labour's policy of 'fair shares for all' is to continue, or whether, as under previous Conservative Governments, the benefits are to go to one section of the people and the misery to another. I ask you to help us to continue the work of recovery so well begun." 48 ft.
- 5. S.3. T.3. [CU. Attlee seated in armchair, speaks:-
"Yet Mr. Churchill calls this 'sharing misery.' The question to be decided at this election is whether Labour's policy of 'fair shares for all' is to continue, or whether, as under previous Conservative Governments, the benefits are to go to one section of the people and the misery to another. I ask you to help us to continue the work of recovery so well begun."] 52 ft.
- 6. LS. Attlee seated in armchair. (Tracking shot)

Cuts of Issue No:

LIBRARY NO.

Used In Issue No: 50-11

MUTE - TIN 1 A

Unused:

TRACK - TIN 1 B

LAU - TIN 2 A

Sections bracketed used in the issue.

SHIPMENT :

SUBJECT : CLEMENT ATTLEE'S ELECTION SPEECH.

Own.

Date Recd :

7.2.50.

Orig

:Dupe

: F.G.

: Release

: Red

Neg XX

:Neg

: Lav.

: B/W

: B/W

: Master

Date of Issue

6.2.50.

Neg.

:Pos

: Mute

: Comb.

: Length :

: ft.

Track XX

:Track

I N D E X

LOCATION OF STORY

Pathe Studio, Wardour Street.

S H O T L I S T

7. S.I. T.I. SV. Attlee seated in armchair, speaks:-

"5 years of war men and women of Britain."

8. S.2. T.I. SV. Attlee seated in armchair, speaks:-

"During the last 4½ years.....been greatly increased."

9. S.2. T.2. SV. Attlee seated in armchair, speaks:-

"During the last 4½ years a very fine effort has been made. Production in industry and agriculture has been greatly increased. The opportunities of working has been afforded to all the vast majority has worked well. The inevitable hardships and shortages have as far as possible been shared by all, but so have the advantages. The great Social Security Scheme has applied to all, and the results of Labour's policy is seen in the health of the people, especially of the children and the babies. Never have they been so fine and Mr. Churchill calls this 'sharing misery.'

10. S.2. T.4. SV. Attlee seated in armchair, speaks:-

"During the last 4½ years.....a very. (Fluff)

11. S.3. T.2. CU. Attlee seated in armchair, speaks:-

"Yet Mr. Churchill calls this 'sharing misery.' The question to be decided at this election is whether Labour's policy of fair shares for all is to continue, or whether, as under previous Conservative Governments, the benefits are to go to one section of the community, and the misery to another. I ask you to continue to help us (Fluff)

This Roll contains spare re-takes.

12. Spare CV of Attlee in Tin 2 (LAV). - 2I.

Outs of Issue Nos

LIBRARY NO.

Used In Issue No: 50-11

MUTE - TIN 1C

Unused:

TRACK - TIN 1D

SHIPMENT:

Pathe - Rota

SUBJECT:

MR. ATTLEE'S ELECTION SPEECH

Date Recd:

Orig	: Dupe	:	F.G.	:	Release	:	Red
Neg	: Neg	:	B/W	:	B/W	:	Master

Date of Issue

6/2/50

Neg.	: Pos	:	Mite	:	Comb.	:	Length:	ft.
Track	: Track	:	:	:	:	:	:	:

INDEX

LOCATION OF STORY Pathe Studio.

SHOT LIST

1. S.V. Attlee seated in easy chair speaking: 'Five years of war inflicted great damage on our country. Valuable lives were lost. Much wealth was destroyed. Our trade was disrupted. Clearly there will be hardships and shortages of many things to be endured. To achieve recovery we require a great effort on the part of all the men and women of Britain. 46ft.
2. S.V. During the last 4¹/₂ years a very fine effort has been made. Production in industry and agriculture has been greatly increased. The opportunity of working has been afforded to all, the vast majority has worked well. The inevitable hardships and shortages have, as far as possible, been shared. But so have the advantages. The great social security scheme has been applied to all. The result of Labour's policy is seen in the health of the people, especially of the children and the babies. Never have they been so fine. 70ft.
3. C.U. Yet Mr. Churchill calls this 'sharing misery'. The question to be decided at this election is whether Labour's policy of 'fair shares for all' is to continue or whether, as under previous governments, the benefits are to go to one section of the people and the misery to another. I ask you to help us to continue the work of recovery so well begun.' 52ft.

Cuts of Issue No:

LIBRARY NO.

Used In Issue No: 50/II

Unused: