1. L.S. Congress with back view of Acheson.
2. L.S. G.V. Acheson on platform to begin address.
3. M.S. Acheson speaking:
 'First of all it should be made plain that there was nothing which any of the foreign ministers, not any one of the 12 foreign ministers, had to say, which indicated that there is any immediate threat of war. It was our unanimous view that that is not the problem. The problem is to meet a threat, which in view of the known programme of the Kremlin, will exist unless we act now to prepare our defences against aggression. So long as any dictatorship builds powerful armed forces, so long must democracies-if they are to be left in peace-evidence their determination to defend themselves by maintaining adequate forces in being and an adequate state of preparedness.'
