Four thousand cyclists streaming through the heart of a town right across the main street, and not a motorist giving a hoot! But it's O.K. - they're guests of the town. Some of them have cycled all night bringing messages for the Mayor from towns and cities all over the British Isles.

He's come from Glasgow without banging a sixpence for transport. And here's a case of youth taking a back seat as veteran Jock Miller arrives with his son. Britain has 11-million cyclists. It's a grand sport that seems to keep them mighty fit.

White City

Sport of a different kind figures at the White City, where Yale and Cornell meet Oxford and Cambridge. It's a close contest with victory going to America by 7 events to 6. Surprise of the meet is our success in the track events. We won the 100 yards, mile, relay, three miles, and here's Wilkinson of Oxford winning the 220. The long jump made it 6.

The start of the 220 low hurdles.

Brooks of Cambridge leads into the straight but tires and Hunt of Cornell plugs on grimly to win for America by 2 yards.

The hundred. Most exciting race of the day, with Wilkinson, Pinnington of Oxford and Hunt of Cornell in a breath-taking dash that equals the English native record as Pinnington gets the verdict by not much more than a smile!
